Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Esport Specialist role at NetEase Games. I am based in Surrey, close to the role's location, and have spent 15 years in esports tournament and live event operations, most recently as Head of Esports Operations at BLAST.

Across my time at BLAST I ran tournament operations for the shooting title CS2 (and CS:GO before it), both online and offline, alongside titles including Dota 2, Rocket League and Fortnite. I was the main tournament-level contact for partners including FACEIT, ESIC and BLAST Premier teams, managing player and partner relationships and coordinating tournament planning with commercial and product teams to hit delivery deadlines. I also brought player operations and team support into my department, so online and offline player management sat with one team.

Day to day, I have booked and managed freelancers and vendors, controlled tournament budgets and equipment, and built the operational tools my team used to run bookings, calendars and deadlines. I am comfortable working across the full tournament ecosystem, from planning through to event-day delivery.

I would welcome the chance to discuss how this experience could apply at NetEase Games.

Yours faithfully,

Tim Everard
