Head of Operations, Arlington Resource Management

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Head of Operations role at Arlington Resource Management. I've spent 15 years running the operational side of live events and broadcast, most recently as Head of Esports Operations at BLAST, and I'm looking for the chance to bring that operational leadership to a growing consumer brand.

At BLAST I led a six-person department, with €12m+ in budgets and 2,000+ freelancers and vendors managed across 60+ flagship events a year. I rebuilt how the department worked, bringing in clearer ownership, accountability and documentation, and designed the team's own tools for tracking bookings, budgets and deadlines. I also wrote the business case for a new departmental budget, working closely with finance and commercial teams to pitch and cost new work.

I should be upfront that my operations background is in live events and freelancer management rather than D2C ecommerce, and I haven't worked with 3PL partners, customs clearance or Shopify. What I'd bring is a strong track record of team leadership, budgeting, process improvement and vendor management, built from the ground up across several fast-moving operations.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how this experience could apply to the Head of Operations role at Arlington Resource Management.

Yours faithfully,
Tim Everard
