Assistant Operations Manager, Direct Chauffeur Line Limited

I am writing to apply for the Assistant Operations Manager role at Direct Chauffeur Line Limited. I bring 15 years of operations management experience, leading teams, freelance staff and budgets across live events, broadcast and tournament operations, and I am looking for a role where I can put that operational and people management experience to work in a new setting.

Most recently, as Head of Esports Operations at BLAST, I led a six-person department and rebuilt how it worked, bringing in clearer ownership, accountability and proper documentation. Before that, as Tournament Operations Manager, I was the main point of contact for partner organisations on day-to-day operational matters, managed staffing and equipment budgets, and approved invoices across multiple productions. At Jam Television I hired and trained staff, ran rotas covering a 24-hour operation including holiday cover and emergency call-outs, and managed suppliers.

Across my career I have managed over 2,000 freelancers and staff, delivered more than 60 flagship events, and controlled budgets exceeding €12m, always working across multiple sites and productions at once. I am used to being the first point of contact when something needs resolving quickly, and to balancing the needs of staff, suppliers and management.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how this experience could transfer to the Assistant Operations Manager role, and I am happy to provide any further information.

Yours faithfully,
Tim Everard
